The 2018 Chilly/Rainy edit of Accra Fashion Week will see fashion forward designers from in and around Africa showcase exclusively to the audience trend setting designs that are bound to influence style across the world. With African designers consistently influencing the west with styles and more, this is the prime show to see future trends internationally.

Accra Fashion Week operates to produce a platform for African designers that can be compared to likes fashion weeks across the major capitals, with the objective to shed light on African designs that surpass that of imports. The event is brought to you by Africa's most popular fashion media FashionGHANA.com. FashionGHANA was created as a vehicle orchestrated to turn the vast creativity of fashion we see in Ghana into core business hence the creation of Accra Fashion Week. The fashion week aims to fill the buyer-designer void we see in Africa by bringing together the various components pertaining to buyers, manufacturing, production, distribution, boutiques and designing.

Accra Fashion Week believes the right platform can erupt not only a very trendy and colorful Africa, but also contribute successfully to it's economy with more jobs created in the clothing sector.
